THE Hongkong and Shanghal Bank shares continue steadily to decline in public ar preclation, netwithstanding the powerful efforts made to stem the flowing tide. The Bank's losses during the past few months, chiefly owing to gross neglect and mismanagement, are said to be phenomenal. There will probably be some interesting revelations forthcoming at the next shareholders' meeting of this most immaculate Corporation.

THE tea season in Kiuklang, says the Shenpao, has been opened with every promise of success. There is at present a fairly good stock of black teas, but as the cost of tea is extraordinarily high in the mountains, the market price necessarily reached a great figure. Fortunately foreign merchants are aware that the tea crop is small this year, so that they are willing to pay a good price for what tea can be got. The native dealers are not much elated, however, as the scarcity of ten does not mean heavy profit.

A TELEGRAM from London, dated the 2 ard ult. confirms the suggestion that I and Knutsford is only obeying orders in his action respecting the Military Contribution. In introducing his Budget on the 23rd April, Mr. Goschen, Chancellor of the Exchequer, said that considering the increased costs of armament and the heavy burden on the home taxpayer a call ought to be made upon the colonies for further contributions to the fund for imperial defence. After much beating the air he announced that he would have an estimated surplus of nearly £2,000,000, all of which would be absorbed by establishing a scheme of free education to come into operation on the 1st of September next. So we are to belp to support home schools.

On the 2nd inst. an Imeute occurred in the new gaol, Bangkok. Twelve prisoners employed as cooks concealed choppers and other weapons, and whilst exercising suddenly attacked the guards. A severe struggle took place, during which two of the warders were killed, and eleven of the ruffians secured, one having made his escape during the melds. Mr. Allen, superintendent of the prison, received a very severe wound in the hand from a blow with one of the choppers. All of the mutineers were covered with wounds from the severe handling they received at the hands of the prison officials. They managed to break down two partitions, and get away to the jungle, however, but the police recaptured all but one. They are to be flogged, and then lose

A CHINAMAN at Amoy, who for some four or five years past has been in the habit of visiting a rich Chinese widow in Amoy, was taken somewhat by surprise at two oclock the other morning, according to the Times. It seems that the relatives of the charming widow having heard of what was going on, and bent upon putting a stop to the scandal, visited her residence and there discovered the lover. He was immediately seized, his hands tied behind his back, and both his cars and queue were cut off. This punishment not being thought sufficient, the widow's relatives, to the number of about twenty, paraded the culprit through the principal streets of Amoy for two or three days. So far as we can learn nothing was done to the woman. In addition to encouraging the visits of her lover, she l given him from time to time something between two and three thousand dollars in money.

Wi A Lai and Wang Song were charged with committing piracy on a junk in British waters on the 16th ult. The Attorney General conducted the case for the crown, and said that the second prisoner would also be charged with receiving stolen property. Two of the junk's crew had left the colony, and definite agreement, both sides making contheir depositions made before the magistrate | cessions. were taken.

The defence was that the articles produced were the lawful property of the prisoners, and it was suggested that the prosecutors had sold their goods, lost the proceeds in gambling, and invented the story of piracy to cover their losses. There was no evidence to show this.

> WRECK OF THE STEAMER -'-ALBANY''-

News of the wreck of the British steamer Albany, Captain Hord, was received here late on Saturday evening last, by Messes. Dodwell, Carlill and Co., from Shanghai. The Albany . was a steamer of 2,000 tons carrying capacity. and was built at Leith. Her owners are Messrs. John Warrick & Co. She was to leave Nagasaki on Saturday forenoon for Shanghai, where she would take in a quantity of cargo shop by the roadside, where the bleeding was for New York and then come on here to fill up. THE ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION OF THE CZAREWITCH.

One of those dastardly attacks, for which I voan unfortunately possesses an unhappy The jury unanimously found the prisoner preeminence, was made yesterday, which placed in jeopardy the life of the helr to the crown of His Lorship said the prisoner had been gullty all the Russias. It was known that H. I. He would be sentenced to the evening, and this morning we issued two expresses, the first merely stating the fact that the Prince had been wounded, and the second containing farther particulars, with the welcome intelligence that the wound was only a slight one. More detailed information has since arrived, and it may be well to give the occurrences of the day in a narrative form. H.I.H. the Crarewitch left Kyoto yesterday morning at 8 o'clock, in jinrikisha, in company with Prince George of Greece, his suite, and a number of Japanese officials, for the purpose of inspecting the various objects of interest in the neighbourhood of Otsu. After visiting the different scenes, H.I.H. had tiffin-at-the-Shiga-Kencho, which he left shortly before 2 p.m., on his return. Whilst proceeding through Klomachi in Otsu, about 6 or 7 cho from the Kencho, Tauda Sanzo, a policeman stationed on the right hand side of the road, suddenly drew his sword, and making a blow at H.I.H. cut him, through his hat, inflicting two wounds extending from the side to the front of his forehead. They are believed to have been inflicted by a single blow. H.I.H. was immediately taken into a small stopped, and temporary bandages were applied. What happened after the attack is not exactly clear. The earlier telegram said that the would-be assassin was cut down by a police inspector, but this was an error. Later despatches secured. After this, H.I.H. returned to the meantime physicians from Osaka and Kyoto were summoned to attend him. When sufficiently restored, he took the train from Baba to Kloto, and arrived at the hotel at 5.15 p.m. A medical examination was immediately made, and it was found that the blows had not injured the frontal bone, but were slight cuts, one of nine, and the other of seven centimetres in length. H.I.H. was said to be in very good spirits, and had conversed freely with his swife.

Meanwhile the news had reached Tokyo, some half-hour after the attack, and all was consternation, as it was not thought possible that the victim of a blow from a sword could have escaped so easily, and it was feared that the wounds were, at least, dangerous. Both the Emperor and Empress were much affected, and expressed their deepest regrets. Under instructions from H. I. Majesty, H. I. H. hatred of foreigners amonest a certain class of the native population, which is continually showing itself. We are told by the organ of the Japanese Government that the English are the nation most detested, but it seems to us that the Japanese is tolerably impartial in his hatred of foreigners, and that all suffer in turn. The residents of the neighbourhood of Kyoto and Osaka seem to be peculiarly imbued with this spirit of fanaticism, and no rank awes them, witness the attack on Sir Harry Parkes at Kyoto; the outrage, eleven years ago, on Prince Heinrich, and the occurrence of yesterday Besides this, it must be remembered that natives who have followed the career of Russia in Asia, have a sort of instinctive dread of that Power, and the cession of Saghalien to her, although in exchange for the Kurile Islands, rather augmented than diminished that' feeling. When to this native ferocity of temper, and this hatred of foreigners in general, and of Russians n particular, we add the fact that many Japanese detest the honour shown to foreign princes, thinking that their own Emperor is superior to all, we fir I quite enough to account for the sudden attempt to murder, without seeking for a supposititions insanity.

The occurrence is, however, a lamentable one for Japan, and coming so soon after the attack at the Russian Legation, wears a somewhat ominous look. Even if Russia be disposed to accept the explanations made, in general estimation Japan will suffer, and retarding blow has been given to treaty revision. The continued murders and attempted murders of Japanese Ministers; these ever-recurring attacks on foreigners, will do much to support the protest of the foreign residents against being placed under Japanese jurisdiction, because it shows to what a very slight extent the vaunted civilization has penetrated the native mind. 'Vis-à-vis Russia, all that can be done has been done to atone for the attack on the life of the Czarewitch; the immediate despatch of an Imperial Prince; the departure of the Ministers; and finally the hurried journey of the Emperor to the scene, all prove the desire of the Sovereign of Japan to repair, as far as may be in his power. the mischief done. But in regard to Japanese pretensions in the face of the world, they have received a set back from which they will not easily recover, and at this moment Europe and America are, no doubt, discussing this latest outbreak of Japanese ferocity or fanaticism, call it what you will. The only thing upon which Japan can congratulate herself, is the very forunate salvation of the life of the Czarevitch from the attack of a dastardly assassin.

Mr. Reding, Consul for Russia at Shanghai, received a telegram from the Russian Legation at Tokyo on Friday last, stating that His Imperial Highness is rapidly recovering from his wound, on board the Pamiat Azova, at Kobe.

ANTI-FOREIGN OUTBREAK AT WUHU.

A serious attack on the foreign residents at Wuhu occurred last week. A correspondent of the N. C. Daily News gives the following details :-

For several days past rumours have been fliating about that a mob had determined to loot and fire the property belonging to the Jesuit Fathers here, the reason for this being that a number of Chinese children had been seized and killed, and their eyes taken out to make medicine for the fathers. Very little notice was taken of these threats by the foreigners, but on Tuesday we found that our confidence was misplaced. Soon after noon of that day crowds began to collect round the premises occupied by the Fathers, and at about 4 p.m. they broke through the walls, burst open the doors, drove the Fathers out, and commenced looting and destroying everything they could find. They then set fire to the house in which the Fathers lived, and which was a splendid building only finished a few months since, the cathedral, hospital, and all other buildings in the compound. They next proceeded to the English Consulate, and began to throw stones through the windows, and desiroy the flowers and other properties in the garden, and it was only the timely arrival of the Tactal with some men, and the coolness of the Consul, (Mr. Colin Ford) that saved this fine building from being set on fire. Hundreds of savage natives were yelling and howling round the place, and the Consul and his wife had to disguise themselves in Chinese clothes in order

At 8 o'clock all the foreigners succeeded in getting to the Custom House, which is on the bank of the river. The ladies and children were mob intended to burn it down and all the Jesuits. Twice during the night these houses were looted and set on fire, and it was only the prompt steps taken by the Commissioner (Mr. Woodruff) and his staff, assisted by the Taotai who behaved very well, that saved the whole of

Had the man been insane, tell. During the time the cathedral was being fired, men well dressed in silks tary contact with him, must have noticed and ratins were seen to be directing the crowd, and it seems a pity that these, and not a few wietched coolles, have not been arrested. This sudden outbreak should, I think, again teach a lesson to those interested. I mean the unprotected state of the river ports, and I trust the Admiral of the station will see his way to nt once send a gunbont to be stationed between Chinking and this port. A man-of-war was telegraphed for on Tuesday night, but none has yet arrived. (!

Several complaints are being made as to the action of the clerks in the Chinese telegraph office at this time. Messages were sent to the office on Tuesday night for transmission, by the Consul, and some of the shipping agents, but the operator refused to send them until he had himself wired to the head office in Shanghai, asking for permission to do so,

Some days ago, two Chinese women lost their sons and it was stated that they had been kidnapped by the lesuits. The women went to the Roman Catholic Mission and asked for their children. Of course, they were not there, but the women commenced to lament and a crowd collected and things got so serious that the Taotal was appealed to, and the crowd was dispersed. On Tuesday morning news arrived of the attack on the Roman Catholic Mission at Yangchow, and in the afternoon, the two women who had lost their children again went to the Mission and knocking their heads on the ground loudly bewailed their fate. This caused a crowd to congregate, and talking the matter over among themselves, they came to the conclusion that the priests had made away with the children, and as evidence of the fact they averred that there were a number of coffins on premises. The costins were there, they were intended for members of the Mission who died at Wuhu. Some time ago, two Chinese Sisters or nuns had been at Wuhu, and they used to talk to the children of Wuhu, perhaps put their hands on their heads, when speaking to them. So the natives said these nuns were capable of striking deaf and dumb those they touched. All this the crowd talked about and were finally worked up to such a pitch, that they made an attack on the Roman Catholic premises and as they came in at the front the priests escaped by the back. The mob set fire to the place, pouring oil on the woodwork to make it burn better. The rioters dug up some graves on the premises and broke open the coffins. The report that an old woman and two children were burnt to death fortunately turns out to be incorrect, as the missing woman has since arrived at Shanghai.

The Chinese men-of-war which arrived at a ni on Wednesday were on their way up the iver escorting H.E. Shên Ping-chêng, Governor of Anhui, the late acting Viceroy at Nanking, who left here last week, and had no knowledge of the riot at Wuhu till they arrived there. They anchored abreast of the yamen and after the Consul had been on board, shifted their berths and moored inside the hulks so as to be able to get at the mobif necessary. Before they had arrived, some fifteen of the rioters had been arrested and tied up, but H.E. suggested to the Taotal that he should release them, for if he wanted them again, he could always find them. At 5 p.m. the men-of-war fired blank cartridge and soon after it began to rain and the mob commenced to melt away. By 7 p.m. the mob was quicter, and during the night the soldiers were firing blank cartridge to scare the people away. At 0.30 a.m. on Thursday there was a small fire but it was soon put out. At I a.m. the Yuenwo arrived, having made a smart run down from Kiuklang i response to a telegram, and at 6 a.m. the Tenshing left for Shanghal and the Yuenwo left

The mob went systematically to work and pulled down the buildings as if they were paid for the job. They carefully took the hinges off the doors and windows, using screwdrivers, so that they might be sold or used again, and took away in boats all they could carry. Before the houses were fired a man dressed in silks, with a fan in one hand and a red flag in the other, directed the mob where they were to work. On the morning of Wednesday, when the second riot occurred, the rioters encouraged each other with cries of ta, ta, and then proceeded to the R. C. Mission. They could be seen streaming into the compound like awarms of ants, and their numbers were estimated at 10,000. The meb did not make any demonstrations against the Methodist Episcopal (American) Mission, which is some distance from the Roman Catholic premises, but the British Consul told the missionaries that he would not take any responsibility in the event of further trouble, so they came away in the Tehshing, but Yr. Whalley remained behind, living on the bulk with the other foreigners. Two of the ladies who came down in the steamer lost everything they had and only escaped in what they stood upright in. The Tehshing arrived at Wuhu at 6 a.m. on Wednesday and was soon afterwards informed of the riot. She went alongside the Li-tai, where they found the ladies and children of Wuhu on board, this hulk having been selected as it is an iron one and could not be so easily destroyed as the wooden ones. They were all taken on board the Teksking and Captain Cain and his officers and engineers did all they could sent on to the China Navigation Company's to make them comfortable, and brought them on receiving ship, the Consul and a number of to Shanghai. At Chinkiang they picked up the foreigners going off also for their protection. priests who had escaped from Wuhu in a boat The other foreigners fully armed remained at the and had been seen by the Ella. They had Custom House, as word was brought in that the arrived at Chinklang an hour before the Tehshing. While the mob was demolishing the Cathedral, surrounding buildings, which are occupied by Captain Cain went on shore and walked up to members of the Customs staff, and owned by the the place, but was not molested, although he stayed some time looking on at the work of destruction.

The French man-of-war Inconstant was nine miles below Chinking on Thursday at 6 p.m., and H.M.S. Linnet having been found by the tugboat sent to look for her, got back to Woosung On Wednesday morning things were more soon after noon on Friday. She was detained quiet, and men, women, and children employed for a pilot, but Mr. Flood went down to her in themselves in carrying away from the houses of the afternoon and she then proceeded to Wuhu. stoppage, but also during his journeys.
